FUNDAMENTALS

Copper City Softball believes that one of the best ways to prevent injuries and accidents is to have the players be taught proper fundamental skills of softball. All Managers and coaches are required to attend a fundamentals clinic hosted by the league. Several different experts have served as instructors.

This year's fundamentals workshop is scheduled for April 18th from from 2 PM MT to 4 PM MT and will include First Aid, Concussion and Covid training.

FIRST AID and CONCUSSION POLICY

Copper City Softball believes that preventing and being able to respond to medical situations is the cornerstone of any safety plan. Whether it be on the field or off the field, leagues can help not only prevent accidents, but educate youngsters in fundamental safety concepts that can help them safe on and off of the field. CCSLL managers are required to take one practice before games begin to discuss bicycle and motor transportation, bullying, and tobacco avoidance. The speed limit on CCSLL facilities is 10 mph as it is posted by county officials. CCSLL requires that all umpires, managers and coaches attend a first aid/accident prevention clinic in order to stay current with first aid procedures. Clinic will be held on April 18th 2PM to 4PM at CCSLL facility. Each team is issued a first aid kit and is required to have it at all practices and games. First aid kits are also available at all facilities.

Electronic weather detector application Weatherbug should be used by league officials and coaches to monitor weather during practices and games. Suspension of activity is required when the storm is detected at 3 to 8 miles away. Games will be suspended for 20 minutes to ensure the storm has moved out. Children should be removed from metal dugouts and seek shelter while in delay.

CONCUSSION POLICY

A concussion is a type of traumatic brain injury that interferes with the normal function of the brain. It occurs when the brain is rocked back and forth or twisted inside the skull as a result of a blow to the head or body. The blow does not need to be directly to the head for a concussion to occur. What may appear to be only a mild jolt or blow to the head or body can result in a concussion. It is now known that young athletes are particularly vulnerable to the effects of a concussion and that a concussion has the potential to result in short or long-term changes in brain function, or in some cases, death. There is no such thing as a minor brain injury. Any suspected concussion must be taken seriously and acted upon immediately. Recognition and Management If an athlete exhibits any signs, symptoms, or behaviors that make you suspicious that he or she may have had a concussion, that athlete must be removed from all physical activity immediately! Continuing to participate in physical activity after a concussion can lead to worsening concussion symptoms, increased risk for further injury, and even death.

Concussion training is available online through the Centers for Disease Control at <https://www.cdc.gov/headsup/youthsports/training/index.html>

Each head coach and each board member will be required to submit a copy of the certificate once completed and must be done before the first game of the season.

The handout in Appendix A will be given to all parents to raise awareness of concussions. The form is also available at https://www.cdc.gov/headsup/pdfs/youthsports/Parent_Athlete_Info_Sheet-a.pdf

CONCUSSION PROTOCOL

Managers, coaches, umpires, and league officials, are not expected to be able to “diagnose” a concussion. That is the role of an appropriate health-care professional. However, you must be aware of the signs, symptoms and behaviors of a possible concussion, and if you suspect that an athlete may have a concussion, then the following procedure must be enacted immediately:

1. Immediately remove the athlete from game/practice/physical activity.
2. Complete the CCSLL Concussion Checklist immediately upon removal from game/practice/physical activity. Turn completed form into appropriate CCSLL official. If the health status of the athlete warrants immediate medical assistance/attention (seizure, loss of consciousness, etc.) call 911 immediately and then complete a concussion checklist when the situation allows you to do so.
3. The signs, symptoms, and behaviors of a concussion are not always immediately apparent after a bump, blow, or jolt to the head or body and may develop over a few hours. An athlete should be observed following a suspected concussion and should never be left alone.
4. Inform the athlete’s parents or guardians about the possible concussion and inform them that CCSLL policy mandates that the athlete must be evaluated by an appropriate health-care professional and will not be allowed to return to practice or games until an appropriate health-care professional says they are symptom free and medically clears them to resume physical activity.
5. Manager/coaches will not allow athlete to resume practice/games/physical activity until they are provided a written release by the athlete’s health care provider. Verbal indication of release by parent/guardian is not acceptable – written release must be provided and this in turn must be into appropriate league official to be filed with other documentation of incident.

 In the event that a manager or coach becomes aware (i.e., disclosure by parent/guardian/ player) that a player has been involved in a non-league activity that is known to have actually caused a concussion or is of such a nature as to cause concern – the manager /coach is to restrict league activity until such time as the player is examined and released by an appropriate health care professional to return to full physical activity. When in doubt, sit them out!

Important to Remember: If an athlete returns to activity before being fully healed from an initial concussion, the athlete is at risk for a repeat concussion. A repeat concussion that occurs before the brain has a chance to recover from the first can slow recovery or increase the chance for long-term problems. In rare cases, a repeat concussion can result in severe swelling and bleeding in the brain that can be fatal. Athletes must know that they should never try to “tough out” a suspected concussion. Teammates, coaches, umpires, and parents/guardians should never encourage an athlete to “play through” the symptoms of a concussion. In addition, there should never be an attribution of bravery to athletes who do play despite having concussion signs or symptoms. The risks of such behavior must be emphasized to all members of the team, as well as coaches and parents.

REPORTING INJURIES

1. Report incident immediately to League Official
2. Fill Out Accident Claim form. Forms are available in Appendix A of this Document, or at the clubhouse.
3. Once completed by Parent and League, form will be submitted to Little League International.

These items may be updated at any point either the league or the BSB Health Department when necessary. As of March 24th, all Covid restrictions have been lifted within Butte Silver Bow. Masks and social distancing are still strongly suggested by Copper City Softball, but are not required.

- scheduling procedures
- no on-deck batters
- coaches not allowed to warm up pitchers (including standing at the backstop)
- Use of disengaging breakaway bases.

ADDRESSING COMPLAINTS & GRIEVANCES

As in any competitive situation, there are always times that individuals will disagree with the decisions made by an organization and its leaders. A truly safe program allows for those disagreements to be heard in a safe, non-threatening manner. As an entity that employs volunteers, the organization must respect due process rights of individuals involved in decisions of the organization. Thus, a method of bringing forward complaints is necessary in order to protect the due process and dignity of individual members, as well as providing a safe method by which members can relate their feelings on decisions, etc. without turning into a crisis situation. Referring to the League Code of Ethics will be of great assistance to league personnel throughout a grievance situation and should be referred to during the process.

The first step of any grievance is to attempt to handle the situation unofficially through mediation. Note: All player complaints are represented through the Player Agent who speaks on behalf of players. The complaining party is required to contact the individual directly to verbally voice the complaint. If no solution is found, the division director may be brought into conversation. If no solution is found, the President may be contacted. Both parties must contact the President to ensure the need for his or her involvement. If the President cannot mediate the situation to a solution, he or she will ask the complaining individual to put the complaint in writing in which the complaint will be heard at next Board meeting or at special meeting if the President feels the issue is of dire attention. All complaints must be in writing to be heard by the Board. The Board of Directors will then listen to complaint as well as responses from other parties and offer solutions. The League Constitution spells out timelines for resolving these complaints. Complaints about personality conflicts will not be heard by the Board unless it shows negative impact on the kids shows negative impact on the kids.

Concussion

INFORMATION SHEET

This sheet has information to help protect your children or teens from concussion or other serious brain injury. Use this information at your children's or teens' games and practices to learn how to spot a concussion and what to do if a concussion occurs.

What Is a Concussion?

A concussion is a type of traumatic brain injury—or TBI—caused by a bump, blow, or jolt to the head or by a hit to the body that causes the head and brain to move quickly back and forth. This fast movement can cause the brain to bounce around or twist in the skull, creating chemical changes in the brain and sometimes stretching and damaging the brain cells.

How Can I Help Keep My Children or Teens Safe?

Sports are a great way for children and teens to stay healthy and can help them do well in school. To help lower your children's or teens' chances of getting a concussion or other serious brain injury, you should:

- Help create a culture of safety for the team.
 - Work with their coach to teach ways to lower the chances of getting a concussion.
 - Talk with your children or teens about concussion and ask if they have concerns about reporting a concussion. Talk with them about their concerns; emphasize the importance of reporting concussions and taking time to recover from one.
 - Ensure that they follow their coach's rules for safety and the rules of the sport.
 - Tell your children or teens that you expect them to practice good sportsmanship at all times.
- When appropriate for the sport or activity, teach your children or teens that they must wear a helmet to lower the chances of the most serious types of brain or head injury. However, there is no "concussion-proof" helmet. So, even with a helmet, it is important for children and teens to avoid hits to the head.

Plan ahead. What do you want your child or teen to know about concussion?

How Can I Spot a Possible Concussion?

Children and teens who show or report one or more of the signs and symptoms listed below—or simply say they just "don't feel right" after a bump, blow, or jolt to the head or body—may have a concussion or other serious brain injury.

Signs Observed by Parents or Coaches

- Appears dazed or stunned
- Forgets an instruction, is confused about an assignment or position, or is unsure of the game, score, or opponent
- Moves clumsily
- Answers questions slowly
- Loses consciousness (even briefly)
- Shows mood, behavior, or personality changes
- Can't recall events prior to or after a hit or fall

Symptoms Reported by Children and Teens

- Headache or "pressure" in head
- Nausea or vomiting
- Balance problems or dizziness, or double or blurry vision
- Bothered by light or noise
- Feeling sluggish, hazy, foggy, or groggy
- Confusion, or concentration or memory problems
- Just not "feeling right," or "feeling down"

Talk with your children and teens about concussion. Tell them to report their concussion symptoms to you and their coach right away. Some children and teens think concussions aren't serious, or worry that if they report a concussion they will lose their position on the team or look weak. Be sure to remind them that it's better to miss one game than the whole season.

cdc.gov/HEADSUP

CONCUSSIONS AFFECT EACH CHILD AND TEEN DIFFERENTLY.

While most children and teens with a concussion feel better within a couple of weeks, some will have symptoms for months or longer. Talk with your children's or teens' healthcare provider if their concussion symptoms do not go away, or if they get worse after they return to their regular activities.

What Are Some More Serious Danger Signs to Look Out For?

In rare cases, a dangerous collection of blood (hematoma) may form on the brain after a bump, blow, or jolt to the head or body and can squeeze the brain against the skull. Call 9-1-1 or take your child or teen to the emergency department right away if, after a bump, blow, or jolt to the head or body, he or she has one or more of these danger signs:

- One pupil larger than the other
- Drowsiness or inability to wake up
- A headache that gets worse and does not go away
- Slurred speech, weakness, numbness, or decreased coordination
- Repeated vomiting or nausea, convulsions or seizures (shaking or twitching)
- Unusual behavior, increased confusion, restlessness, or agitation
- Loss of consciousness (passed out/knocked out). Even a brief loss of consciousness should be taken seriously

Children and teens who continue to play while having concussion symptoms, or who return to play too soon—while the brain is still healing—have a greater chance of getting another concussion. A repeat concussion that occurs while the brain is still healing from the first injury can be very serious, and can affect a child or teen for a lifetime. It can even be fatal.

What Should I Do If My Child or Teen Has a Possible Concussion?

As a parent, if you think your child or teen may have a concussion, you should:

1. Remove your child or teen from play.
2. Keep your child or teen out of play the day of the injury. Your child or teen should be seen by a healthcare provider and only return to play with permission from a healthcare provider who is experienced in evaluating for concussion.
3. Ask your child's or teen's healthcare provider for written instructions on helping your child or teen return to school. You can give the instructions to your child's or teen's school nurse and teacher(s) and return-to-play instructions to the coach and/or athletic trainer.

Do not try to judge the severity of the injury yourself. Only a healthcare provider should assess a child or teen for a possible concussion. Concussion signs and symptoms often show up soon after the injury. But you may not know how serious the concussion is at first, and some symptoms may not show up for hours or days.

The brain needs time to heal after a concussion. A child's or teen's return to school and sports should be a gradual process that is carefully managed and monitored by a healthcare provider.
